STEWART'S PLEA IS CHANGED TO GUILTY

WITH COURT convened in Glendale, Calif., hospital, Mrs. Armelia Mae Hasvold, 70, testifies from her bed, "I was attacked from behind and knocked down—I felt someone kicking me, hitting and mauling me." Facing Mrs. Hasvold from end of table at left is Judge Kenneth White (glasses). Three girls accused of attacking Mrs. Hasvold sit in foreground. From left, they are Mrs. Deanna Jean Bejar, 18; Mrs. Mary Ann Kennedy, 22; Lora Lee Weltz, 18, all of La Crescenta, Calif. Mrs. Hasvold, who will be incapacitated for two or three months, suffered a broken hip, injured spine and other injuries. She was robbed.

Cooking School Has Features For All Ages

1956 Institute Opens Tonight At 8; Many Big Gifts Waiting

Fashions in food and clothes will highlight "Command and Performance," the second night program of the Gasco Food Institute here Wednesday.

The free cooking school, largest in Ohio, opens tonight at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds coliseum for daily shows through Thursday. All performances start at 8 p. m.

The Circleville Herald, Ohio Fuel Gas Company, and co-operating local merchants are sponsoring the event.

A long list of prizes will be awarded.

"Command Performance" has something for every member of the family, according to Lecturer Mildred Dunn and Manager Jay Parker.

Food-wise, dad is sure to pick up a few ideas about what to serve at stag parties. There are pies, cookies, and jams to attract the youngster, and recipes with which mother can suit the tastes of everyone around the family dinner table.

IN ADDITION, there will be a style show featuring men's and women's fashions. Clothes will be supplied by local merchants.

Recipes used on the second night's show include those which have been requested by Ohio housewives in their letters to Gas Company Betty Newtons over the state.

There will be a corn pudding that does not separate, a country-style steak, herb-broiled chicken, Coney Island hotdog sauce, and an old-fashioned stack cake.

Youngsters' tastes will be considered with mouth-watering lemon crackers (a Christmas type cookie), black bottom pie, and a quick-made strawberry-pineapple jam.

All recipes used on the show will be available to all who attend. The Food Institute always draws a large crowd.

Gas Truck Blows; Freak Kills Boy

CARO, Mich. (P)—A flying piece of metal from an exploding gasoline transport truck fatally injured 11-year-old Ned Huffman as he ran from the scene yesterday.

The truck, driven by William Force of Caro, blazed up at a residential intersection. Caro firemen were fighting the flames when the truck exploded.

Despite flying metal and spewing, flaming fuel, Ned was the only casualty. He was 200 feet away from the explosion.

Crippled Children Drive 'Successful'

Fund Raising Campaign This Year Tops 1955 Total By About $600

Pickaway Countians contributed about $600 more this year than last to the campaign for the Society for Crippled Children and Adults—the familiar Easter Seal drive.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, chairman of the drive, revealed today that a total of $3,025.74 was collected during the campaign, which lasted more than three weeks. Total contributions consisted of: $487.69 from the Lily Parade; $70.96 from the Coffee Hour; $246.65 from schools; $156.49 from counter cans; $163 from "shares of happiness"; and $1,900.95 from the sale of Easter Seals.

The money will be used in many ways, the sheriff pointed out. Special shoes, braces, canes, crutches, walkers, wheelchairs and orthopedic equipment will be purchased.

Wherever needed, special treatment will be provided. The Society is also planning to send at least 12 handicapped children to Summer Camp in August.

As a new feature, the group is sponsoring a swimming instruction class for handicapped children at Gold Cliff Park. These will be held two days a week, each session lasting two hours.

Mrs. Gordon Dalsbo, a registered nurse, will be in charge. She will be assisted by a qualified lifeguard at the pool.

Anyone knowing a handicapped child who would be interested in this swimming program may contact any member of the Pickaway County Society.

Thanks were forwarded by the group to the following: Circleville High School's commercial department, Circleville police, Pickaway County sheriff's department, all county post offices and employees, county school bus drivers, local restaurants and all volunteers.

"Without the help of all these people," Sheriff Radcliff said, "the campaign could not have been a success."

Chilly Breeze Continuing In Northern U.S.

CHICAGO (P)—The nation's weather showed only minor changes today, with more chilly breezes for northern states and continued mild in the southern areas.

Temperatures dipped to far below freezing in some northern Midwest sections. The coldest weather was in the northern part of the Great Lakes region and westward through the upper Mississippi Valley, the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Readings ranged as low as 15 degrees in Grantsburg, Wis.

Snow flurries were reported in parts of New England and in the northern Rockies.

Torrential rainfall, measuring as much as 10 inches in the Corpus Christi, Tex., area, inundated thousands of acres of growing crops and flooded sections of the Gulf Coast city yesterday. Moderate to heavy rain continued last night along the west Gulf Coast. Rainfall measured nearly 2½ inches in Brownsville, Tex., and nearly 2 inches in Beaumont.

Scattered thunderstorms were reported in a narrow belt from Oklahoma eastward through southern Missouri, northern Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee. Falls were mostly light.

In the South temperatures were in the 50s and 60s this morning from South Carolina westward through Texas, with a few 70s in the southern tip of Texas and southern Florida.

Danish Boy, 9, Gets King's Note

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (P)—Nine-year-old Preben Anton Larsen did a bit of reckless driving on his bicycle and wound up with bruises, a box of candy and a letter—all from his King.

The Copenhagen boy made a sudden left turn without signaling and was hit last Sunday by a car King Frederik was driving.

The King sent the child a box of candy and this letter:

"Dear little friend,
"I congratulate you on your happy escape from the accident. I am very glad you were not hurt more seriously. I hope you will like these sweets."

4 Israelis Die In Ambush; U.N. Gets Protest

Incident On Jordan Border Hinted Work Of Arab Refugees

JERUSALEM (P)—Four Israelis were murdered in an ambush last night several hundred yards from the Israeli-Jordan border of the Negev Desert.

U.N. truce observers hurried to the scene today.

An Israeli army spokesman said the four men, employees of Israel's water authority, were traveling in a command car which was set afire.

The ambush occurred about 6 p. m. on the Beersheba-Eilat road, not far from Scorpion Pass. It was there that Arab infiltrators attacked an Israeli bus in 1954 and killed 12 of its passengers.

The outbreak on the Jordan border raised new problems for U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld in his mission to put an end to shooting incidents between Israel and the Arabs.

"This outrage bears all the signs of another Fedayeen action from whichever territory the murderers may have come," Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett messaged Hammarskjöld.

FEDAYEEN ARE suicide commando squads, generally made up of Arab refugees from Palestine. They last infiltrated Israel two weeks ago from the Egyptian-held Gaza Strip, killing 13 Israelis in a series of raids before a cease-fire was ordered.

Hammarskjöld today was in Damascus trying to secure Syrian agreement to an unconditional cease-fire along the Syrian-Israeli frontier formed by the Jordan River and the Sea of Galilee.

Recent serious Arab-Israeli clashes have occurred along Israel's borders with Egypt and Syria. The frontier with Jordan has been generally quiet for months, and that with Lebanon even quieter.

Egypt and Israel agreed to observe an unconditional cease-fire last week. Lebanon subsequently promised to cooperate.

The Syrian government announced after a conference between Hammarskjöld and Premier Said Ghazal that Syria had agreed to a cease-fire but only if Israel pledged to respect U. N. Security Council resolutions. This apparently referred to the Council's call to Israel not to proceed with its plans to divert the waters of the Jordan River for irrigation.

Informants previously said Ghazal told Hammarskjöld Syria would regard any attempt by Israel to divert the river waters as an act of aggression.

The Syrians referred to an irrigation project started by Israel in the demilitarized zone near Benat Yacov, south of Lake Hule. The Israelis halted work on the project early this spring when serious border fighting threatened.

Corn Support Price Pegged At $1.50

WASHINGTON (P)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson says that corn grown in compliance with department acreage allotments will receive price support at $1.50 a bushel, or at $2.6 per cent of parity.

Farmers who do not comply with the acreage allotments will receive support at $1.25 a bushel and not less than 70 per cent of parity.

Previously, corn grown outside the allotments got no support. Benson also formally announced that the minimum national average support price for 1956 crop wheat would be $2 a bushel, and that the minimum national support price for 1956 rice would be $4.50 for 100 pounds.

Farmer Incentive Being 'Destroyed'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (P)—The president of the American Farm Bureau Federation says government help has "nearly destroyed incentive among farmers."

Speaking at a railroad convention yesterday, Charles Shuman of Sullivan, Ill., said:

"A lot of farmers think they have a right to a decent income. They're wrong. They only have the right to earn a decent income."

GOP Farm Policy Fluctuates With Elections, Dem Claims

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) says the Republicans favor high crop price supports in election years, but are for low prices in years when they are not running for office.

Johnson, the Democratic leader in the Senate, spoke for his party last night in a nationwide radio-TV speech replying to Eisenhower's address a week earlier explaining his veto of the election-year farm relief bill.

The Texas Democrat contended that when Eisenhower first ran for the presidency four years ago, he campaigned for high supports as "the best thing for the farmer."

After the Republicans won, Johnson said, "this promise was forgotten."

Then, after vetoing the farm bill largely because of high support provisions, Johnson said Eisenhower "completely abandoned his flexible supports" by raising price props for cotton, wheat, corn and rice above previously announced or anticipated levels for this year's crops.

"In 1952 and in 1956 the Republicans favor high supports," Johnson told his audience. "In 1953 and 1954 and 1955 the Republicans favor low supports. They favor high supports in election years and low supports in non-election years.

"If the past is any guide to the future, Gen. Eisenhower's Republican administration will go back to 75 per cent next year—if it is still around at that time."

Johnson used a film clip and a recording of part of a 1952 campaign speech Eisenhower made in Kasson, Minn. He also quoted from another 1952 speech Eisenhower delivered in Brookings, S.D.

In the Kasson speech, Eisenhower said that "without any 'ifs' or 'buts' I say to you that I stand behind—and the Republican party stands behind—the price support laws now on the books."

The President went on to say, "This includes the amendment to continue through 1954, the price supports on basic commodities at 90 per cent of parity."

Johnson quoted Eisenhower as saying at Brookings that "the Republican party is pledged to the sustaining of the 90 per cent parity price support." In this quoted excerpt, there was no qualification as to year.

"But once the Republicans came into office, this promise was forgotten," Johnson stated. "Despite all efforts of Democrats to stop it, President Eisenhower's administration did away with 90 per cent supports for the farmers. In its place went something called the sliding scale. Well, the farmers have slid down that scale ever since."

Johnson said Eisenhower's veto "has cost the farmers two billion dollars for this year."

Defending the vetoed bill as "the product of years of hard work and hard thought," Johnson promised the Democrats will continue their battle for 90 per cent supports "to stop this decline of farm income."

The Eisenhower administration favors the present flexible system of price props ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity, a standard written into farm law and designed to give farmers a fair return in relation to their costs.

In vetoing the bill, Eisenhower called it "self-defeating" because it provided for a return to high, rigid price supports on basic crops and contained other sections whose effect would have been to raise farm prop levels.

Color Line Ends On 'Bama Buses

Montgomery Firm Bows To High Court Order

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (P)—Negroes rode desegregated buses for the first time in the Cradle of the Confederacy today in the face of a stern warning from city officials to keep the racial barriers up.

Montgomery City Lines, Inc., which operates the city's only bus service, abandoned the traditional segregation of white and Negro passengers in the wake of yesterday's Supreme Court ruling.

Only a relatively few Negroes who have boycotted the buses for nearly five months patronized them during the morning because word of the bus company's new policy didn't become known until late last night. Some of the drivers were unaware of it until they reported for work today.

Meanwhile, the future course of the boycott was undetermined, but the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., one of the leaders, expressed hope that the end of segregation would terminate the long protest.

King said the decision will be left to the Montgomery Improvement Assn., an organization formed to support the boycott. The executive board was to meet this afternoon with a Negro mass meeting perhaps to follow.

THE NEGRO Baptist minister was convicted of violating Alabama's antiboycott law for his part in the bus protest.

The order to stop assigning seats according to race put the bus company squarely in the middle between the Supreme Court ruling and a stern warning yesterday from Mayor W. A. Gayle that the company must continue to maintain strict racial segregation.

Before the desegregation order was posted, Gayle hinted that legal action might be taken against the company if bus officials disregarded state and city laws requiring segregation.

City police said they had no orders to make any arrests of drivers or bus company officials.

Blind General Doesn't Label Self Handicapped

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (P)—The blind general demonstrated proudly his system for lighting a cigar and remarked:

"I don't consider myself handicapped."

Maj. Gen. Melvin J. Maas, chairman of the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped, was here to address a four-day conference and workshop on the handicapped.

"I'm proud of what I can do with a cigar," he said. "But I'm even prouder of my golf. Some of it has improved since I've been blind. Blindness cured my hook and slice. I don't pull my head up when I swing."

2 States, Alaska Balloting Today In Party Primaries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The political spotlight swung today on three presidential primary elections, with special emphasis on a test of the relative strength of President Eisenhower and Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson in Pennsylvania.

In Alaska, Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver were opposed in a Democratic presidential preference contest.

In Massachusetts, backers of Stevenson and Rep. John W. McCormack waged campaigns for Democratic write-in votes. Kefauver asked his supporters to vote for McCormack, a favorite son candidate. Neither Stevenson nor Kefauver campaigned there.

Eisenhower has only nominal GOP opposition in Pennsylvania from Sen. Knowland of California, who was unable to withdraw his name after Eisenhower announced his candidacy.

Stevenson is unopposed on the Democratic side. Voters can't cross party lines, so it becomes a test of who can pull in the most votes in his own party.

EISENHOWER beat Stevenson in the 1952 Pennsylvania general election, 2,415,789 votes to 2,146,269. Observers forecast about 35 per cent of the state's 4,970,195 eligible voters would ballot today.

Pennsylvanians also choose a 74-vote Democratic delegation and a 70-vote Republican delegation to the respective national conventions. Neither group will be pledged to any specific candidate.

Massachusetts voters pick a 40-vote Democratic delegation and a 38-vote GOP group. Write-in votes are not binding on the delegations.

Knowland is also on the GOP ballot with Eisenhower in Alaska, but interest focused on the contest between Stevenson and Kefauver. It is the territory's first presidential preference primary.

Other political developments: Kefauver told a United Auto Workers education conference in Washington that Eisenhower displays "tender solicitude" for giant corporations. He said "profligate generosity is general" and urged a congressional probe of auto prices.

Knowland, appearing on the program for the GOP, replied that the future of the nation depends on "a profitable industry." Regulation of profits, Knowland said, would lead to regulation of everything and mean eventually "the end of the free labor movement."

The Young Republican National Federation disclosed that Eisenhower has endorsed a plan for $2 contributions from Young Republicans, the money to be split 50-50 by national and state groups.

New York Mother Has 6 Babies In Shade Over Year

NEW YORK (P)—A tiny Bronx mother of year-old twins gave birth to quadruplets yesterday.

Mrs. Carmen Medina, 25, wife of a $40-a-week machinist, had twin girls April 10, 1955. She expected twins again this time. But she had two boys and two girls, a one in a million occurrence.

Mrs. Medina is 5 feet 2 and weighs only 96 pounds. The father, Ciprian, 28, is three inches taller and weighs 115.

The quads arrived four minutes apart. The smallest, a boy, weighed 2 pounds 5 ounces. The largest, also a boy, weighed 3 pounds 3 ounces.

Informed he was the father of quadruplets, Medina said: "I think I'd better earn more money."

Youth Admits Forcing Way Into Residence

Trial Ends Abruptly; Sentence Scheduled Wednesday Morning

Trial of a Circleville High School junior, accused of attacking elderly women in their homes here, ended abruptly and unexpectedly today at approximately 10:40 a. m. with a change of plea.

Clifford E. Stewart, 18, entered a plea of guilty to two of the three counts with which he was charged. The jury of seven women and five men was dismissed and Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff said he would pass sentence at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Jesse Dickinson, Stewart's main attorney, entered pleas of guilty to breaking and entering of an inhabited dwelling in the night season with intent to commit a felony, and assault with intent to commit rape.

Stewart now faces the possibility of a life sentence, according to Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer. He pointed out that the law specifies life or 5-30 years if mercy is advised. There is no possibility of probation, according to the law quoted by Ammer.

THE TRIAL had not yet been called back into session this morning when Dickinson suddenly asked for a conference. When court convened, he entered the new plea.

Ammer said he understood the factor which motivated this sudden defense action was the testimony Monday of Mrs. William Smith, a relative of a woman who was attacked. (The elderly woman died some time after the incident—but the death in no way was connected with the attack under an agreement reached between Ammer and Dickinson.)

Mrs. Smith related details of the attack as told to her by the victim, Ammer said that after Monday's session, Dickinson confronted Stewart with Mrs. Smith's testimony and then apparently decided to enter the plea of guilty.

According to the testimony, Mrs. Smith, her husband and daughter were summoned to the woman's Watt St. residence shortly after the attack. While Mr. Smith and the daughter searched the neighborhood, the victim reportedly described the attack to Mrs. Smith in detail.

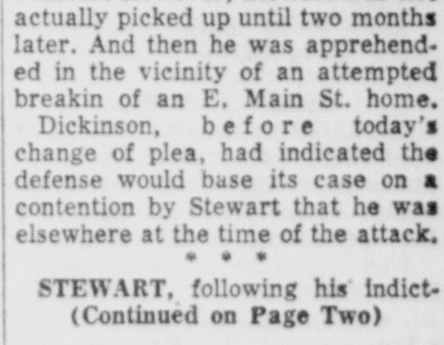

The attack took place last November. However, Stewart was not actually picked up until two months later. And then he was apprehended in the vicinity of an attempted break-in of an E. Main St. home.

Dickinson, before today's change of plea, had indicated the defense would base its case on a contention by Stewart that he was elsewhere at the time of the attack.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"DOORKNOB IN A HAIR TONIC FACTORY"

The classic design of this Drooodle makes it suitable for mental calisthenics. In other words, you can exercise the human mind in your head by trying to think up other titles for it. Like for instance it might also be called, "A ROLLING STONE THAT GATHERED SOME VERY NEAT MOSS" or even "A SNOW BALL WITH A FUR COAT." Or if you happen to be sports-minded it might just as well be called "A NOISELESS PING PONG BALL." If you are interested in the more scientific approach you might call it "A TOTAL ECLIPSE OF A PIN CUSHION." If you don't care for any of these titles think up one of your own and mail it to me. I'll study it and let you know what your D. Q. (Drooodle Qualification) is.

Bedridden Man, 64, Saved By Firemen

CHICAGO (P)—Two firemen rescued a 64-year-old, bedridden man and his wife from a burning building here last night.

Moments after the rescue, a four 55-gallon drums of oil stored in the building's basement exploded. One of the blasts hurled three firemen several feet. However, no one was injured.

Capt. Robert Hart rushed into the two-story frame building and led to safety Mrs. William Thornhill, 61. She then told Hart her husband was bedridden and Hart and Fireman Charles Cross ran to the second floor and carried out Thornhill.

Progress Made In Plans For Reserve Outfit

"So far so good," is the way leaders of a local Army Reserve plan feel about their first efforts to set up an organized unit in Circleville.

The Ohio Military District has commended the results of an organizational meeting held here to form a nucleus for the reserve outfit. Army Reserve officials voiced enthusiastic satisfaction toward the manner in which district veterans have greeted the current effort.

On the basis of this interest, the Army Reserve Center in Columbus has asked federal authorization to activate an infantry company in Circleville.

Local leaders of the move are now looking for a suitable building for use as headquarters.

A NUMBER of veterans have already volunteered to join the new outfit, and these in turn will guide the organization through its preliminary growth. Later, young men between the ages of 17 and 18½ years will be enlisted in the unit, in accordance with the Reserve Forces Act of 1955.

A meeting will be held in the Circleville American Legion Hall Wednesday at 8 p. m. Any and all problems relating to formation of the local company will be discussed.

All veterans, and anyone else interested, will be welcome to participate.

Chamber To Tell Parking Lot Plan

Members of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce will meet with city council tonight to explain details of the Chamber's plan to relieve the parking shortage in the downtown section.

The Chamber has led plans for two off-street parking lots through their preliminary stages and now seeks to turn over the projects to the city. At their latest meeting, the lawmakers expressed a desire to have additional information on the Chamber planning, and tonight's meeting was set for that purpose.

The meeting is set for 8 p. m. in council chambers on the second floor of city hall.

U.S. Guided Missiles Said Ahead Of Reds

DETROIT —Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles says "we are technically ahead of the Soviets" in development of guided missiles and that the U. S. is "putting top priority on the development of such weapons."

Quarles said he was not surprised by Nikita Khrushchev's declaration in England that the Russians soon will have hydrogen bomb guided missiles that can hit any point in the world.

"It all depends," Quarles said, on Khrushchev's definition of "soon" or a "short time." "It probably comes down to translating the Russians," Quarles said, "in a matter of time the Russians will have such weapons."

U.S. Denies Soviet Claims On Tunnel

BERLIN —The U. S. Command in Berlin today denied knowledge of a tunnel the Russians charged was used by spies tapping the Soviets' main communication lines.

A U. S. spokesman said, however, that the Soviet accusation "is being investigated." Another American official described the Soviet charge as "ridiculous."

The Russians said last night that their signal and intelligence officers uncovered a long and elaborately equipped tunnel running from the American sector of Berlin into the Soviet sector.

Republican 'Kitchen Cabinet' Due At Ohio Women's Parley

TOLEDO — The Republican administration's "Kitchen Cabinet" flies in from Washington today for a grass roots conference with Ohio GOP women.

The wives of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Atty. Gen. Brownell will take part along with wives of 10 other secretaries and undersecretaries. They will fly back to Washington tonight.

Mrs. Carroll D. Kearns, president of the National Federation of Republican women, said it is the first time wives of U. S. department heads have served as a "Kitchen Cabinet" to spread "political gospel."

"It will give women at the grass roots level a much better understanding of politics," said Mrs. Florence G. Morris of Toledo, vice president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, the organization sponsoring today's affairs.

"Women are more and more interested in government," she said. "They want to know what makes government tick on the national level. They want a first hand knowledge of government."

MRS. MORRIS, a housewife, said the "Kitchen Cabinet" is "purely an educational project."

The cabinet and subcabinet wives were set to speak to small groups first and then summarize their remarks to the 1,000 delegates in a later session.

The wives of Secretary of the Army Bruckner and Secretary of the Air Force Quarles were on the program.

The Ohio federation named 10 "cabinet members" to aid in the conduct of the seminars and in the introduction of the guests from Washington.

The members of the "Ohio Cabinet" are Mrs. Edwin Stitt of Lake County, department of state; Mrs. R. L. Ireland of Cleveland, treasury; Mrs. Maxine Charlton of Lan-

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. No do plume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD:

A select few are opposed to a shopping center in the Hargus Creek area. They claim it would endanger the life of many school children, resulting in health hazards and leading to additional problems in law enforcement.

Mr. Ammer, our present county prosecutor, says it will be a meeting place for all kinds of gangsters and other gambling devices. This is just across the alley from his back yard.

You would think he could enforce the law better than that. He should have more respect for our city law enforcement officials than to make such charges.

He speaks of us property owners who wish to sell our properties as we have been offered more money for our property as monetary gain. He has Mr. Don Mason, who works for a local wholesale grocery house, on his side, and two local retail grocers who think it will hurt them.

That is not monetary gain, is it? Mr. Mason and Mr. Ammer speak of past floods and they say this area should be left as is as the water from the local area all drains down in the surrounding low area, which is the property we are trying to dispose of for a shopping center. Why should we have to keep land that is out of production when we can sell it for more than anyone has offered us just for a drain for the surrounding property owners in case of another flood?

Last Summer, when the shopping center was first brought up, Ammer's store, Don Mason, Bertus Bennett and Denver Greenlee either had a petition in the stores they operate or made a house-to-house canvas. They had around 300 signers.

We made a canvas of those favoring the center in four days. We had either 1,600 or 1,800 in favor of the center.

Mr. Ammer has charged us with using school boys. It surely did not take a man to upset their argument.

They claim a shopping center will decrease the value of adjoining property. If so, why did 31 adjoining property owners sign a petition for it? Only two stayed neutral and the remainder of the 43 owners who own properties surrounding this area were against it.

The petitions were not passed by boys at this time.

Let us hear from some more of your people who favor this project, and especially some of you country people who are having trouble parking when they wish to shop in Circleville.

Deputies Checking 2 Breakin Reports

Sheriff's deputies were investigating two breakins which took place Monday night in the Williamsport area.

One report concerned a lumber yard, the other an auto parts firm. There was no report on what, if anything, was missing from either place.

Anthracite was the first mineral fuel to be used in American blast furnaces.

Soviet Chieftains Go Sour After British Parleys

LONDON — Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev strode grimly from a crucial meeting today with Prime Minister Eden, amid plummeting hopes for any solid British-Soviet agreement on world issues.

Moments later the Soviet leaders postponed for 36 hours a news conference they had scheduled for tomorrow. A British Foreign Office spokesman said he could not explain the reason.

With the Soviet-British talks in their final stage (this was the next to the last session) the Russian leaders looked almost sullen as they left No. 10 Downing St.

Eden did not come to the door to his official residence to see the Soviet leaders out, the normal custom for such high ranking visitors. Staring stolidly ahead, the Russians hurried to their waiting car to be driven to the House of Commons for a luncheon.

British alarm and resentment mounted as a result of Khrushchev's two speeches yesterday in which he bragged about Soviet guided missiles with H-bomb warheads and talked tough to labor leaders critical of Communist policies.

A FOREIGN Office statement said today's talk "reviewed the question of Anglo-Soviet trade and continued discussions on cultural exchanges and on the disarmament problem."

Indications were that Khrushchev and Bulganin ran up against a British stone wall on the trade and contacts phases of the talks.

British opposition to breaking down the Western embargo on selling strategic goods to Russia seems to have irritated Khrushchev and resulted in his new tough tone.

He seemed to approach the talks now with a chip-on-shoulder attitude.

"Khrushchev drops the mask," said a typical headline.

Informed opinion here traced Khrushchev's new tone to a combination of irritation over the cool reception he and Bulganin have received and their failure to break down Britain's determination not to trade in strategic goods.

Newlyweds To Get Free Honeymoon

SHREVEPORT, La. — Newlyweds Bill and Louise Harrison have a free honeymoon from here out—if they can be found.

The Harrisons were married Sunday and took off in their new car for Florida, with stops scheduled at Natchez, Miss., and Pensacola before reaching West Palm Beach.

A Shreveport department store announced yesterday that the bride has won a contest entitling her to an all-expense four-day trip to New York. Learning of the marriage, the firm threw in a place for the groom, a 23-year-old salesman.

Dr. Richard Bowman was the main speaker Monday evening at the regular weekly meeting of the Circleville Kiwanis Club. He described how geological studies of the district have added many chapters to the early history of the area that is now Pickaway County.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

SAMUEL LUTZ
Samuel Lutz, 67, of 836 S. Scioto St., died suddenly following a heart attack about 3:30 p. m. Monday while working in a garden at his home.

He was born in Ross County, Aug. 29, 1888, a son of Charles J. and Sarah Belle Sampson Lutz.

Mr. Lutz was preceded in death by his first wife, Harriet Winks Lutz, and two sons, Ralph and Charles J.

A second wife, Maggie Parker Lutz, survives. The deceased also leaves:

Four sons, Everett, Forrest and Ray, all at home, and Warren of 152 Logan St.; five daughters, Mrs. Leslie Garrett of Salt Creek Township, Mrs. Ronald Pontious of Walnut St., and Miss Gayle, Miss Clione, and Miss Blanche, all at home; 16 grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; one brother, Freeman Lutz of 958 S. Pickaway, and a sister, Mrs. Grace Wilson of Yellowbud.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Nazarene Church here, with the Rev. Dale Freuhling officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home from 6 p. m. Tuesday until noon Thursday, when the body will be removed to the church.

Hunt Pressed For Missing Cincy Plane

CINCINNATI — An intensive search continued today for a plane lost since last Sunday night with four persons aboard.

A fleet of Civil Air Patrol (CAP) planes was searching over a 50-mile long corridor from Cincinnati to Youngstown where the missing four-place craft last reported by radio.

A 40-plane CAP search group, drawn from Cincinnati, Columbus and Youngstown, failed to find any trace of the craft yesterday.

The four persons aboard the missing plane:

Richard T. Bethell, 29, the pilot, a salesman for the Monsanto Chemical Co.; Ward Mathis, 30, Laboratories and assistant professor of medical administration at the University of Cincinnati; Miss Joanne Heekin, 22, a copywriter in the advertising division of a Cincinnati department store and daughter of D. J. Heekin, vice president of the Heekin Can Co.; and Miss Joan Thurston, 22, a secretary in the General Electric Co. plant at Evendale, daughter of A. C. Thurston, executive vice president of the Red Top Brewing Co.

The two women left Friday for New York where they planned to attend the wedding of a Smith College classmate. Bethell planned to visit his parents in New Jersey.

A Warren private pilot, Ted Kapisi, told CAP officers he saw a plane like the missing one pass over Warren at 7:20 p. m. Sunday, headed south-southeast.

The time was about six minutes after the plane reported by radio to Youngstown, 12 miles away.

City Firemen Help Locked Out Lady

City firemen Monday had to do a good turn for a local woman who was out doing a good turn.

Mrs. Allen Thornton, 115 Northridge Rd., had left her home as a volunteer collector for the Cancer fund drive. When she returned, she found she had left her keys inside the house.

Firemen were called because none of the downstairs windows could be opened. The firemen used a ladder to enter a second story window.

The grand jury indictments involved: rape; breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season with intent to commit a felony; and assault with intent to commit rape.

Ammer had called only a few of the 11 witnesses he had listed when Monday's session was halted. He said he had intended to bring scientific evidence into the trial today.

Another factor which Ammer said he would have emphasized was an alleged confession signed by Stewart, admitting all the offenses.

Treasury Sends Utah Governor Rules On Taxes

SALT LAKE CITY —Gov. Bracken Lee, who refused to pay part of his federal income tax and then asked the government what it was going to do about it, got his answer yesterday: A copy of federal tax collection regulations from the U. S. Treasury Department.

Lee is withholding payment of taxes on income of his which is not subject to withholding tax. He wants to force a court test of Congress' right to use the tax money for foreign aid — something he maintains is unconstitutional, along with the tax itself.

Lee says he got the booklet of regulations when he wrote Treasury Secretary Humphrey asking the federal official to elaborate on an earlier statement that the internal revenue service would collect Lee's taxes "in the usual and customary manner . . . by filing a lien and levying on assets."

Big Business Continues To Grow Bigger

2 More Corporations Report Assets Total $1 Billion Or Better

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest businesses continue to grow. Today there are two more American corporations reporting their total assets in excess of one billion dollars than a year ago. And with only three exceptions the lengthening list shows assets valued higher today than a year ago.

In all, 34 industrial, railroad and utility companies report themselves in the bigger than one billion dollar class. There are 17 banks in the country whose resources top the billion dollar mark. Thirteen insurance companies and three finance companies are also in the list.

Of the 34 nonfinancial corporations, 23 report their 1955 sales volume topped a billion. In addition, 10 companies whose assets are below the billion dollar line report their total sales as topping one billion. They are in the food distribution, meat packing, retailing, rubber and tobacco fields.

Looking only at the 34 industrial, transportation and utility giants and ignoring the financial institutions whose resources are of a different kind, you'll find the Bell Telephone system leading the list as usual with its total assets carried in the annual report 14 1/2 billion dollars. (An older method of accounting, used by most corporations, would put A.T.&T. assets at more than 18 billion.)

Next on the list is Jersey Standard Oil with 7 billions and General Motors with more than 6 billions.

Three carry their assets at more than 3 billion — U. S. Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad and Du Pont.

In the more than 2 but less than 3 billion class, in order of size, are: New York Central, Ford, Socony Mobil Oil, Indiana Standard Oil, Pacific Gas & Electric, Gulf Oil, The Texas Co., and Southern Pacific.

Seven companies lie between 1 and 2 billion: Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Edison of New York, General Electric, California Standard Oil, Commonwealth Edison of Chicago, Sears Roebuck and the Santa Fe Railway.

From there on, in descending order, the billion dollar list includes: Union Pacific, Union Carbide, Chrysler, Humble Oil (a Jersey affiliate), American Gas & Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Baltimore & Ohio, Sinclair Oil, Shell Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Cities Service, International Harvester and Aluminum Co. of America. International Harvester is rejoining the group after a temporary absence. Alcoa is a newcomer.

Small Children Admit Cincy Fire

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fire officials reported four small children, aged 5 and 6, have admitted they started the fire that destroyed molding patterns and a storage building of the Tri-State Foundry Co., with an estimated $20,000 loss.

Investigators quoted the children saying they started the blaze last Sunday to drive rats and mice out of patterns stacked outside the building.

Latest reports are Pennsylvania Railroad, Westinghouse and B&O.

U.S. Supreme Court Eyes Ohio Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Supreme Court Monday agreed to review an Ohio Supreme Court decision that the state's fire marshal may deny counsel to persons questioned during investigations of fires.

The case grew out of a fire at the Dresden Mills, Inc., Dresden, Ohio, on Jan. 22, 1954. During the investigation of the fire, the state marshal subpoenaed Harry A. Groban and Nathan Groban, owners of the mill. They refused to testify because their counsel was not allowed to be present.

Cigar-Smoking Said Merely Thumbsucking

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The man who enjoys puffing on that cigar merely is indulging in an adult version of thumb-sucking.

And the same goes for the cigarette smoker and the gum chewer, said Dr. Maury Massler, head of the children's department at the University of Illinois' College of Dentistry.

Massler, speaking to the annual Oklahoma State Dental Assn. convention, urged parents to use more understanding in dealing with problems of thumb sucking and nail biting in children.

He said every person needs some habit to relieve tension and give relaxation. "It is a method of relieving the inner tensions that build up," Massler said.

"Kids who bite nails, although it is not socially acceptable, are releasing the tension they live under," the Illinois dentist said. He emphasized it is normal.

The man who puffs contentedly on a cigar "is sucking his thumb" and the man who chews vigorously on his stogie "is a nail biter," Massler said.

Massler claimed it was no accident that people chew gum or smoke, citing research which he said shows that gum chewing started when the typewriter was

HERE'S HOW . . .

. . . MAKE A PORCH TABLE

For the summer cabin or porch, a handy piece of furniture is a fold-away table, easily made with hammer, saw, and screw driver.

A table top, 48 by 30 1/2 inches, is made of three pieces of lumber: one piece 11 1/2 inches wide, and two each 9 1/2 inches wide. These are cleated together on the under side with two 1 by 3-inch pieces, 20 inches long.

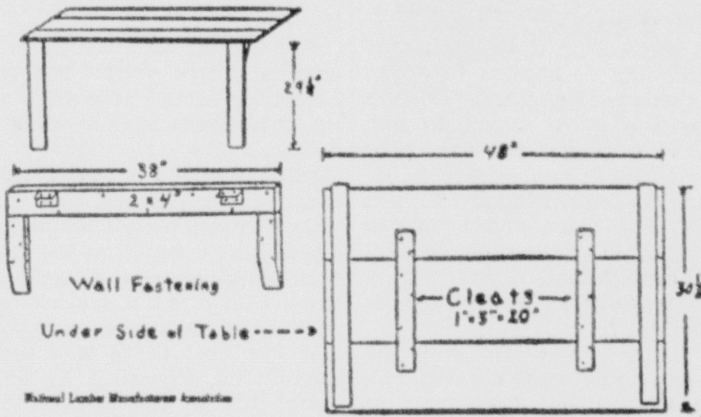

The legs, 1 by 3 by 20 1/2 inches are hinged to the table, 1 inch from the outer edge with card-table type locking hinges.

A wall fastening is made of a piece of 2 by 4 forming a 38-inch rail. The rail is supported on two pieces of 2 by 4, each 10 inches long and tapered at the lower ends.

The table top is then hinged, with butt hinges, to the wall fastening, as shown.

When the legs are folded back and the table dropped along the wall, they will clear the edge of the wall fastening, as will also the short 20-inch cleats.

Makes Friends with the Meanest Roads

(Have you tried Buick's great new ride?)

THE SWEET WAY a '56 Buick rides on all sorts of roads is something you find nowhere else on wheels.

Capricious roads that twist and turn — unruly roads that rock and roll — tired roads, battered and beaten — they all seem to wear company manners the moment a Buick approaches.

Why? Simply because Buick comes with what it takes to put any road on its best behavior — the completely ride-engineered combination of chassis, engine and automatic drive that is obtainable in no other car.

And that's gospel truth whether you drive a new SPECIAL, CENTURY, SUPER or ROADMASTER.

No other car matches the firm, true tracking of Buick's own ride foundation — buttressed by brawny X-braced frame and torque-tube drive — cushioned on coil springs and deep-oil shock absorbers.

No other has such width of tread and length of wheelbase within dimensions so trim and tidy that Buicks turn, park and garage more easily than smaller cars.

No other duplicates the assurance of steering, brakes and rear axle so precisely geared and gaited for the nimble handling that's a safety "must" in modern cars.

And certainly no other name plate promises the soaring sweep of power that wells from the big 322-cubic-inch V8 beneath every new Buick bonnet.

Nor does any other automatic drive put power to its car's rear wheels with the swift, unruffled pace of Variable Pitch Dynaflo® — and that goes double every time you "switch pitch" for whip-quick, safer passing.

But why stop to count reasons — when results are what you're after? Wouldn't you rather really feel Buick's new "sense of direction" on straightaway, curves and corners?

Wouldn't you rather relax in supreme comfort while tooling this powerful performer over roads you always hated to travel?

Well, sir, we cordially invite you to drop in on us and do just that.

Make it this week, won't you? Sample the ride that has charms to win any old road — and get first-hand figures on prices that make Buick owning a more positive pleasure.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

JET NOISE PROBLEM

ONE OF AMERICA'S domestic problems, jet aircraft noise, is rapidly expanding from its once-held position of petty nuisance in large cities to a new status of calamity creator affecting all sections of the U. S.

This problem has been brought to the forefront so rapidly by the increasing number of jet aircraft and the more powerful (and noisier) engines being built that the public has been caught with its eardrums vulnerable.

If the present ratio of jet aircraft to the propeller type were to remain constant for a year or two, scientists might devise some method of muffling the sound. But at the present rate of jet expansion, in three or four years, it is anticipated the age of commercial turbo transport will be here.

As a component part of future generations, the jet engine will play an important role, but man has not taken into consideration his weaknesses when dealing with this innovation. Jet aircraft are being produced capable of generating noise beyond human endurance.

An authority on the subject, Dr. H.E. Page of the Office of Naval Research, says that such planes capable of creating noise "greater than human beings can stand," cause "complete disruption of all human activity" in the immediate vicinity.

Many medical, legal and community-relations problems have already been caused by jet noise, but these are trivial compared to what the future holds if something is not done soon. By far the most serious of these complaints are those dealing with the physical effect on human beings. Today, this terrific racket is capable of creating pain and nausea, interfering with the functioning of the brain, and causing brain damage.

What will tomorrow bring, when the number and noise of these engines are increased a hundred-fold?

WHEN TO REDUCE?

THE CLASSIC prescription of those who advocate liberal federal spending is: "Follow the principle of saving for a rainy day; spend freely in hard times and pile up a surplus in good times."

However the financial advisers of the executive department, in the face of the greatest prosperity ever seen, now insist upon a budget of $65.9 billions, which is about $1.6 billions higher for 1957 than the 1956 amount.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce some time ago put a group of experts to work in the federal budget and it comes up with the recommendation that the 1957 budget be kept to the 1956 figure. The experts say this can be done without in any way detracting from defense or other essential expenditures. They say all that is needed is efficiency and elimination of waste.

To take the spenders' point of view we would have to say: "Let there be lavish spending in hard times, and then, when good times come, let there be lavish spending." In the meantime inflation marches on.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York is beset by many serious and difficult problems, which naturally fall upon one who tries to govern 8,000,000 human beings who are packed into the small area as New York City.

One of his most unpleasant problems is that the teachers in his schools want to earn a decent and respectable living while they work for the city, and the firemen and policemen would also like a living wage and if the Mayor is not careful he could have a teachers, fireman's and police man's strike, which is against the law because in this town, civil service employees may not strike.

But what does one do about it if they quit their jobs and go to work where they are well paid? That is what nurses are doing in the hospitals which are now understaffed. Among 8,000,000 people, there is actually a municipal services manpower shortage because the city pays too little and the little on the budget seems too great.

It is an extremely tough problem for our largest city, but the fact is that there really is no solution for the problem as long as it is handled politically with the object of holding race-conscious votes and when the Mayor is running for Vice President and therefore may not offend anyone who still, in these days of peace and prosperity and booms, insists on enormous relief rolls in a budget which requires increasing the police force and paying the police a man's wage on which a family can be reared in this enormously expensive city.

Municipal government ought somehow to be separated from state and national politics. For instance, the Mayor of New York ought to limit himself to municipal administrative problems, which is enough of a burden for any dozen men in this town, and elections should be on the basis of ability and not whether one is a Republican or a Democrat, which has nothing to do with the price of bricks and cement to build a new school house.

But such counsel is impractical. What a mayor of New York needs to do is to be pro-Greek in the Cyprus situation about which he is likely to be very inept, because the large mass of Greeks in New York votes on the issue of Cyprus and not on the issue of good municipal government in New York.

He must favor Israel rather than the Arabs for the same reason. He must be for desegregation in the South although the Negroes are as segregated in New York in Harlem and the Bedford-Stuyvesant sections as they are in any Southern cities and the school districts are gerrymandered so that Negro children will go to Negro schools as best as can be arranged. So the speeches are just politics and represent nothing in actual practice.

For years, reformers of various kinds, from Henry George to Harold Riegelman, have been advocating municipal administration outside of party politics. Their failure is probably inherent in our way of life. Certainly in New York there is more excited interest in the future of Tel Aviv and New Delhi and the relations between Mao Tze-tung and Chiang Kai-shek than there is in the future of Brooklyn or the traffic tangle at Columbus Circle.

HERMIT CRABS ARE BUSY

THE HERMIT CRAB doesn't build his own house. He occupies empty shells made by other sea creatures. Former President Hoover says the socialist infiltrators in the United States are like hermit crabs, and the simile may have a great deal of validity, since it is a sure thing that the founders of this republic were not socialists.

SYNOPSIS
Mrs. May Featherstone, wealthy English dowager, recognizes a passenger and senses trouble as she boards the "S.S. Caribbean" bound from England to Jamaica. Valerie Allison, a pretty, red-haired nurse, and Dirk Hansen, who was engaged to Mrs. Featherstone's daughter, Ellen, at the time of her death in an auto accident, accompany her. Val is earning her passage by caring for Mrs. Featherstone, an invalid by imaginary illness. Dirk is overtly attentive to Mrs. Featherstone, hoping to be considered in her will. Ellen's earlier romance had been broken up by her mother, and her lover later became a doctor. Mrs. Featherstone becomes ill, but refuses to see the ship's surgeon—having already seen his name on the passenger list, and even fears for her life.

CHAPTER 4

DIRK WAS staring at Val as though he couldn't believe he had heard her correctly.

"Oh, come, you can't expect me to believe that," he said finally. "You're pulling my leg, aren't you?"

"To talk of murder isn't exactly my idea of a joke," she said quietly.

"Did anyone put you up to saying Aunt May isn't completely sane?" he asked sharply.

It was her turn to stare at him in surprise. "But—who would have? And why should they?"

He hesitated. "I'll be frank with you, Nurse. I thought for a moment some of her dear relatives might have been getting at you. They're a rotten lot and ever since Ellen's death they've been hinting that Aunt May has become peculiar, as it were. My guess is they're laying the foundations of a case to have Aunt May's will set aside should anything happen to her."

A Great Shock

"But why should they think anything is going to happen to her?" He shrugged again. "Ellen's death was a great shock to her. It was very tragic for her, poor dear."

Again Val looked toward him in surprise. His voice had been sad but impersonal. Surely he, the bearded bridegroom, should have felt the tragedy as keenly as the girl's mother?

"I'd better go down and see what I can do with the old girl," he said in a hurry. "See you at lunch, Nurse."

She watched his thin, lithe body walk quickly down the deck. She had hoped a talk with Dirk, whom she'd thought of as cheerful and, above all, sensible, would have eased her own apprehensions. But, oddly, she felt more worried now than she had before. She was more conscious than ever that something dark and hidden lay behind all this, behind not only the curious incident which had taken place on the gangway but behind Dirk's attitude toward the girl to whom he had been engaged.

"Good morning." A voice spoke from directly behind her.

Recognizes Face

She turned and immediately recognized the man's face. She had seen it before, when he was leaning over the railing on the top deck as they had come aboard. Then he had been wearing a light gray lounge suit; now he wore the uniform of a ship's surgeon.

"Did I startle you? I'm sorry," he smiled down at her—he was very tall, much taller than she'd thought him when she'd seen him leaning over the railing on the top deck—and when he smiled one corner of his mouth twisted in a slight upward quirk.

"Maybe you did. I've seen you before, haven't I? You were standing on the top deck when we came on board."

His dark eyes swept over her. It was an intent, inquiring gaze, as though he was trying to find out all there was to know about her in the first minute of meeting.

"It was nice of you to have noticed me," he said.

She almost said, "But don't most women notice you?" but checked herself in time. It wasn't a comment a nurse should make to a doctor.

"I'm sorry I can't return the compliment," he went on gravely. "I'm afraid I wasn't looking at the passengers coming on board. I had certain things on my mind, the same things, as a matter of fact, which had delayed me in London. But I'm glad there is a nurse on board," he continued as he stood beside her at the railing. "I find nurses so much easier to talk to than most people. You can discuss things frankly without fear of giving offense."

"You mean you can discuss your cases?"

He laughed. His laughter was pleasant and low-pitched. "The devil with cases! After all, a doctor is a human being, you know."

"I've never thought a doctor was anything but human off duty or a nurse either," she added.

He smiled gravely. "I'm sorry, but I don't know your name. As I said, I came on board late and haven't had time to glance down the passenger list."

"Valerie Allison."

"Valerie Allison—that's a nice name. And it suits you somehow. Mine is Harridan, Bruce Harridan."

"Have you been a ship's doctor long?" she asked.

"Two years. When I finished my training I had an opportunity to go in with a Harley Street specialist, but, with a heavy shadow fell across his face, 'something happened. And I felt I wanted to get away from England.'"

"You like a sea life?"

Likes Sea Life

He nodded. "It has its advantages and disadvantages. Its chief advantage, as far as I'm concerned, is that the good clean sea air has blown the bitterness out of my soul." He broke off sharply and stared down at her as though he were surprised she was there. "I don't know why I'm telling you all this."

"But you said doctors and nurses could talk frankly to each other," she reminded him.

"Maybe," he agreed soberly. He turned back toward the railing. "I always was an impetuous fool."

"Maybe that's why you dashed off to sea in such a hurry," she commented, smiling too. "If you hadn't been impetuous, you'd probably have stayed behind, thought over whatever was troubling you and ended up by accepting the Harley Street specialist's offer. Are you going to stick to the sea all your life, Doctor?"

Oh, so true words from Bill Vaughan, of the Kansas City Star: "A favorite refuge of politicians, when caught in a crack, is to claim that they were misquoted in the press, and the chances are 10 to one that they were. That is, they were misquoted in that the reporter cleaned up their rhetoric, supplied the missing verbs and made sure that their predicates agreed in some gen'l way with their subjects. "The nastiest thing a reporter could do to a politician would be to quote him absolutely, accurately down to every uh, er, well, you see, that is, and so on."

DIET AND HEALTH

Guard Rest Of Family From Danger Of Measles

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IF you have one measles patient in your home, you've got to be careful not to infect the rest of the household. While the death rate for this disease has declined considerably during the last half century, measles still is a highly contagious disease and it still causes some deaths.

If you are the one who is caring for the patient, you're the only one who should enter the sickroom. Keep everyone else out.

Upon entering the patient's room, put on a smock, apron or some washable covering to protect your clothing. Take it off as you leave.

Scrub your hands thoroughly with soap and water upon leaving the sickroom, too. This point is extremely important.

Use disposable tissues or cloths for discharges from the patient's nose or throat. It's probably a good idea to keep a paper bag pinned to the bed where you can easily discard them. Then burn the bag.

The youngster's pajamas, bed linen, dishes, silverware and other such washable objects should be boiled in soap and water each time they are used.

Soap And Water

Wash the thermometer with soap and water after each use. Then place it in a solution of 70 per cent alcohol until it's needed again.

Air the sickroom thoroughly once each day. Open the windows at the top and bottom. Keep the door open, too, so the air can circulate through the room. Better put a few extra blankets over the youngster to keep him comfortable during this brief airing-out process.

Dust Room

Dust the room each day with a damp cloth to keep the dust at a minimum. Clean the floor with a vacuum cleaner or an oil mop.

If two or more of your youngsters have measles at the same time, don't place them in the same bed or even near each other. Complications might spread from one to the other.

As soon as one of your children comes down with the disease, it's probably a good idea to have any of the others who have not had measles given injections of gamma globulin. If given within five days after exposure, this should immunize them for from two to three weeks. Even if they do catch the disease, the gamma globulin will make the attack a mild one.

Writer's Mail Yields Trivia

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That contact lenses aren't new. They were worn during the French Revolution—not so much to help vision as to change the color of the eyes, thus helping serve as a disguise.

That 30 per cent of contact lens wearers today are men and half of them are in the advertising field.

That it used to take five hours for grandma to cook a major dinner for a family of four, but a mother can now do it in a single hour.

That the Folding Paper Box Assn. estimates modern packaging and new ways of preparing food give the average housewife a month's free time every year she didn't used to have.

That the average family eats two cakes a week.

That men's custom tailoring originated in Germany, but Merrie Olde England popularized the bow tie.

That the dandies of Paris used to send their finery across the British Channel to Dover to get it laundered properly.

That Bermuda shorts were once known as "Spanish kettle drums." That when men wore long, tight-fitting hose a gentleman (as a mark of gallantry) would let the lady of his choice wear a new pair of his hose for a week before donning them himself. But today a wife would be insulted if her husband asked her to break in a new pair of shoes for him.

That about 8 million American school children have defective vision—one out of every four children needs eye care.

Mrs. Ulm Presents Talk At Monday Club Meeting

Story Of Africans Highlights Program

Mrs. W. T. Ulm was guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Monday Club. She used as her subject, "The Rise of Social Consciousness In Africa."

Mrs. Ulm started her talk by saying, "We speak of the whole continent, only in a general way, as Africa is a geographical concept too large and too complex to be embraced in a single word."

"Today the tremendous events that are shaking Africa have brought the continent to the crossroads of a new era."

Mrs. Ulm stated, "It is safe to assume the beginning of social consciousness in Africa was implanted by Christian missionaries. Freedom has its beginnings in Christianity."

She said, "The first missionaries suffered many difficulties. They lived under the most primitive conditions with no modern drugs. Their life span averaged three to five years. Great difficulties still face the missionary today. The missionary of yesterday did not have to face the powerful forces of African Nationalism, International Communism and Resurgent Mohammedanism."

"Today, the leaders of these movements are dedicated to the task of winning Africa and they are backed by a large amount of funds."

Mrs. Ulm continued to say, "The French have done wonderful things in Africa to help make it a better and more resourceful continent."

"Russia would like to get a foothold in Africa so as to secure the great mineral wealth in case of another war."

"The United States now receives half of its uranium supply from Africa."

Mrs. Ulm said, "The rapid pace of development is shown by startling facts, such as:

"Forty million inhabitants have moved from the primitive villages to modern cities in the last 20 years;

"Western Nigeria began compulsory primary education in 1954;

"And 10,000 students are in colleges and universities."

Mrs. Ulm concluded her talk by saying, "It is not in intelligence that the African is inferior but in moral and social qualities, and political and financial integrity. The 'golden rule' from the Christian faith is Africa's hope."

Following the program a short business session was conducted by president, Mrs. Collis Young.

Mrs. Ray Davis outlined the plans of the convention for the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Demonstration Group To Hold Achievement Day

The annual Spring county Home Demonstration Achievement Day is scheduled for Wednesday from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran parish hall.

An invitation is extended to any interested homemaker to attend this event which is held to provide fun, enjoyment, and recreation to sow anticipation for homemaker fellowship in future activities.

The event is being sponsored by the Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Leora Sayre, of the County Extension Staff, announced that each of the Homemaker Clubs in the county are assuming a responsibility for exhibits or program. Mrs. Dick Tootle and Mrs. J. E. Goeller are serving as general chairman.

A buffet luncheon will be served at noon. During the program, which will begin at 2 p. m. there will be a narrated revue of dresses made in special project and an illustrated talk by Mrs. William Deffenbaugh in support of the Homemaker World Friendship project.

The objective for these project year termination days of recognition is to provide opportunity for women to see their own work in relation to that of others, and related and resulting fun, fellowship, and inspiration.

Miss Ratcliff Repeats Vows With Mr. Sharrett

Before an altar decorated with white carnations and snapdragons, palms and lighted tapers in candelabras, Miss Rita Lucille Ratcliff and Mr. Ronald Marion Sharrett repeated wedding vows.

The Rev. Benjamin F. Judd Jr. performed the double ring ceremony in First Presbyterian Church of Chillicothe.

The former Miss Ratcliff is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry J. Ratcliff of W. Second St., Chillicothe. Mr. Sharrett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Sharrett of Kingston Route 1.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white crystalline silk. Iridescent sequins and pearl embroidery outlined the neckline and the long, pointed sleeves. Her full skirt ended in a court train and her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a half crown of lace embroidered with pearls and iridescents. The white Bible she carried was topped with a white orchid and Stephanotis.

Miss Laura Hallstrom of Massillon was maid of honor. Miss Elaine Maxson of Kingston and Miss Roberta Fuller were bridesmaids and Sharon Sharrett of Kingston was junior bridesmaid.

They wore identical gowns of Nile green taffeta styled with boat necklines and ballerina-length bouffant skirts. They wore matching accessories.

Is Excess Fat A Disease?

It might be well to consider excess weight a disease. It is frequently classed as the number one killer of the 20th century. If you suffer the social and physical handicaps of being overweight you must read this letter from Mrs. Ralph Feniot, R.R. 1, Houston, Ohio. She writes: "As long as I live I will recommend Renel Concentrate to every overweight person that I know. When I started taking Renel I weighed 164 lbs. In the few weeks that I have been taking Renel I have lost 25 lbs. I have never felt better since losing this needless ugly fat, and I look much better, too."

Thousands of others have overcome the social and physical discomfort of being overweight with this effective home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugist and ask for four ounces of liquid Renel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves — if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Insist on and be sure to get Renel.

licothe and Mr. Jon Sharrett, Mr. Carl Hohenstein Jr. and Mr. Donald Poling, all of Kingston, were ushers.

A half hour of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mr. W. Andrew McNeill, organist and Mrs. Hohenstein, vocalist.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Ratcliff chose a navy-blue silk dress with blue hat and gloves and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a print dress with a light-blue accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ratcliff were hosts for the reception. Miss Mary Doerres, Miss Gwynneth Dailey and Mrs. Robert Wilburn assisted.

For the couple's wedding trip the new Mrs. Sharrett wore a wool dress of dusty-rose. Her accessories were toast and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Sharrett is a graduate of Chillicothe High School and attended Ohio University, Athens. Mr. Sharrett was graduated from Pickaway High School and Ohio

Caddy Miller's HAT SHOP

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: What would be the best way to explain to three young children—ages 5, 6 and 8—that their parents intend to separate? I want to ease the shock for them, insofar as possible.

This decision to separate has matured very slowly on my part. Jake and I have been married 10 years, and in this period he has abused me horribly and has left me several times. I have always forgiven him whenever he asked (doing this for the children's sake); but now I realize that separation is inevitable. Jake is in the Army and spent a year in Korea.

I consulted a marriage counselor, but Jake refused to go, although he tells anyone else who cares to listen all about his troubles with me. A year ago a specialist might have helped us; now it is too late.

As my religion forbids remarriage after divorce, I am well aware of the responsibility that weighs on me, in trying to make a decent home for the children through my own efforts—especially as I am not very robust. God willing, I shall do my utmost; but

Bank Shuns Banks, Thugs Get $16,000

CLEVELAND (P)—A man named Banks who said he didn't believe in banks told police he was strong-armed at his home yesterday by three white-hooded men who stole his hoard of $16,000 in small bills.

Frank Banks, 76, former head waiter at the Mayfield Country Club, said that he opened the door of his home in answer to a knock at about 1 a. m. The hooded men then pushed into the living room, Banks told police. One robber held the aged man down on his bed while the other two ransacked the place until they found the money. The stolen cash, in bills ranging up to $20, represented tips and wages he had saved over 17 years as a head waiter, Banks said.

Lancaster Man Dies In Jail

LANCASTER, Ohio (P)—James F. Julian, 53, of Lancaster died Monday in Fairfield County jail a few hours after he and his wife were given five-day jail terms for failing to send their 10-year-old son to school regularly.

A physician who attended Julian said death was probably due to a heart attack. Municipal Court Judge William C. Pickering immediately released Julian's wife, Mary, 46.

Judge Pickering ordered the jail terms after school officials testified the couple's son was absent from his fifth-grade classes at least one-third of the time without good reason.

at times the prospect overwhelms me. Can you suggest some helpful reading matter? And advise me on how to tell the children of the coming separation?

G. P.

DEAR G. P.: You say that Jake spent a year in Korea with the Army, as the children remember; and that he is still in the service. Also, that it isn't likely they will see him often after you separate, as he will be transferred to a different part of the country, probably.

Well, it occurs to me that this past experience, of the children's being weaned, perforce, from daily dependency on their father's society, automatically cushions the shock of a marriage breakup.

My idea would be that the less said, the better, in terms of trying to "explain" to the children your intention to separate, or your reasons for doing so. Don't be anxious, apologetic or melancholy, in relation to them, as you proceed with the necessary plans.

Juvenile Court Case Load Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)—Ohio's juvenile courts last year reviewed the cases of 36,023 delinquents, 2,820 more than in 1954.

In a report released Monday, Donald E. Smeltzer, chief statistician of the State Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, said the 1955 cases load was almost 50 per cent greater than in 1950 when 20,409 cases were disposed of.

A good number of the cases were for traffic violations, Smeltzer said.

Butler county with 601 cases was among those counties with a high number of cases.

Solons Debate Federal Fund Use

AKRON (P)—Rep. Powell (D-NY) said last night the failure of Congress to deny federal funds to segregated schools would "ignore the clear requirements of the Constitution."

However, Rep. Lee Metcalf (D-Mont) said Powell's proposal would kill the whole federal aid project. He declared:

"It is ironic that the educational field, where proponents of racial integration have won their greatest victory, should be the area where they insist on additional supporting legislation."

He received an honorary doctor of laws degree at the installation of Dr. Russell F. Auman as professor of practical theology at Hamma Divinity School.

Do FALSE TEETH Rock, Slide or Slip?

FASTEETH, an improved powder to be sprinkled on upper or lower plates, holds false teeth more firmly in place. Do not slide, slip or rock. No gummy, goopy, pasty taste or feeling. FASTEETH is alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Sokolsky's These Days

Hereabouts everybody is a diplomat and an expert and the world citizens have no time for giving attention to the size and efficiency of their police force until some celebrity is mugged or sulphuric acid is thrown into the eyes of a journalist and then the city discovers that it is under-policed. That discovery is important until it is swept from view by a marriage such as Grace Kelly entered upon or some other cheese-cake occurrence.

Nevertheless, there are those who feel that even the one-worlders ought to recognize that it would be preferable if the streets of the United States capital were clean and well-policed, and if the schools were taught by happy teachers, and that it is a bit of a disgrace for the firemen picketing the City Hall for a decent wage.

Up to now, nothing has made much of an impression on the citizens. Perhaps if Bulganin and Khrushchev decided to visit the place, we might get it cleaned up in their honor.

Right-Of-Way Jury System Said Faulty

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)—The chairman of the State Highway Construction Council says the effectiveness of jury trials in road right-of-way cost cases is being destroyed.

The chairman, Clingan Jackson, pointed out that juries are selected on a county basis whereas most of the roads now being built are the responsibility of the state and extend across many counties.

The practical effect of this situation, said Jackson, is that "the jurors are... no longer representative of the governmental unit taking the property."

In a report, which is to be submitted today to the Highway Committee of the Legislative Service Commission, Jackson said there have been a number of cases where the assessment of damages by juries have been excessive.

Th remedy for this situation is a return to the original concept of the jury trial wherein the jury was selected from the political unit which would pay for the property, Jackson said.

"Today it would have to be a jury selected on a statewide basis," he added.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, in the manner of a man dipping his toe into water to see if he gets chilled or overheated, seems to be suggesting the North Atlantic Treaty Organization might be expanded.

The idea isn't new with him. At the moment he does not commit himself to it. Rather, he is frankly throwing out a hint to see what reaction he gets.

An expansion would mean the 15 allies of NATO, which was created in 1949 as defense against Russia, would move from a purely military alliance into a wider field — perhaps economic — of cooperation among the Western partners.

Pressure has been building up among this country's NATO allies to stop using it for military purposes only. Dulles mentioned this possibility in a speech Monday to the Associated Press luncheon in New York.

He said NATO "already serves as an indispensable and vital instrument of the Atlantic community. But the time has come, I believe, to consider whether its organization does not need to be further developed, if it is adequately to serve the needs of this and coming generations." He added:

"If that be the common desire of the NATO member nations, the United States will join eagerly in exploring the possibilities which now beckon forward."

Last Dec. 16 the NATO foreign ministers, including Dulles, endorsed a proposal by Italy's Gaetano Martino for greater cooperation among the NATO members in nonmilitary ways, such as economic, social and cultural fields.

Canada's foreign minister, Lester Pearson, has been plugging this idea and on Feb. 29 Italy's President Giovanni Gronchi made a big pitch for it in an address to Congress.

The next day, March 1, President Eisenhower and Gronchi issued a joint statement saying they agreed on the necessity of "further deepening the solidarity among the members of the North Atlantic community through increased cooperation in all fields."

That U.S. allies are not completely happy with the military emphasis this country has placed on NATO up to now was disclosed in other ways, ways which must have given Dulles some concern, since he knows Russia wants to break NATO.

This month French Premier Guy Mollet said the United States thinks too much of "security in military terms." And on March 2 France's Foreign Minister Christian Pineau cautioned against an "Iron Curtain mentality" in the West — particularly the United States — put too much emphasis on military strength.

On March 29 the Parliament of Iceland, which is an NATO member and is a strategic island midway between New York and Moscow, called on the United States to get its troops and airmen out of the country.

CD Highway Signs Now 'Obsolete'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A civil defense official says the advent of super-bombs has made obsolete those road-signs you see reading, "This highway restricted to civil defense traffic in event of attack."

Since evacuation is now considered one of the prime aims in case there is a warning of an attack, you would be allowed to use the highways to get out of town.

George Arnold, Columbus CD administrator, said Monday the signs were erected four years ago, when the prevailing theory was "sit tight and dig in." With the advent of super-powerful bombs, however, the "get out of town" theory took hold.

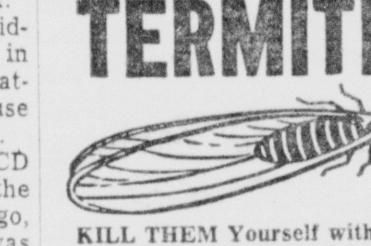

Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber, state CD director, admitted that "we've gotten a lot of criticism from people who thought the signs would keep them off the highways."

Eventually, the federal government intends to supplement the signs with directions telling motorists which routes to use in emergencies, Gen. Kreber said.

Ground Broken For Newest Dam

MARKLAND, Ind. (AP)—Officials and visitors from Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana gathered here Monday for ground-breaking ceremonies for a 73 million dollar dam.

The ground-breaking — in this case the firing of a dynamite charge—followed individual meetings in each of the three states at Cincinnati, Vevay, Ind., and Carrollton, Ky.

Gov. George Craig of Indiana told visitors here that his state and Kentucky had agreed to jointly contribute $200,000 to provide a roadway across the high level dam.

The dam, slated to produce a pool 87 miles long reaching upriver to New Richmond, Ohio, will replace five outmoded dams.

Coal's Position In Competition Said Better

RAVENSWOOD, W. Va. (AP)—Philip Sporn, president of the American Gas and Electric Co., forecasts an improvement in the competitive position of coal which will be "highly stimulating" to industrial development in the Ohio Valley.

Sporn said in a speech at Ravenswood's ninth annual fund-raising school improvement banquet Monday night the rising prices of oil and natural gas due to declining reserves "is bound to lower the position of these fuels with respect to coal."

Sporn continued: "In the Ohio Valley, where some of the finest coal reserves of the world are being developed and mined, but where there are additional reserves good for many generations still to be mined, this is bound to be helpful—indeed, highly stimulating—to the development of the valley.

"It should be particularly helpful in bringing in new expansions in the chemical, electro-chemical, metallurgical, and electrical metallurgical industries where large quantities of economical electrical energy are required."

Sporn noted that the Ohio River Valley has been chosen in recent months as the site for two new aluminum industries.

"I still believe that the chances

Grain Dealers Urged To Use Hundredweight

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

An Ohio State University economist urges farmers and grain dealers to adopt the hundredweight as a unit of grain measure. Robert M. Reeser, research assistant in agricultural economics, says this would "end confusion caused by the use of the bushel."

Buying and selling grain by the hundred, he points out, would simplify calculations, ease feed-value comparisons, eliminate conversion problems, and avoid varying bushel weights.

The bushel is supposed to be a volume measure—2150.41 cubic inches. The grain trade and the economy in general, however, need a weight measure, Reeser says. A "bushel" in the grain trade is actually an arbitrary number of pounds that must be defined for each grain.

A "bushel" of oats weighs 32 pounds. A 2150.41 cubic inch bushel may vary in weight from 24 to 40 pounds.

A "bushel" of ear corn may weigh from 68 to 74 pounds. It should yield a 56-pound "bushel" of shelled corn. A "bushel" of shelled corn may or may not fill 2150.41 cubic inches. This confusion holds true for all grains, Reeser claims.

Don't worry about moss in your lawn. Be thankful you have it. Otherwise your ground would be bare and muddy.

Victor H. Ries, Ohio State University extension floriculturist, says moss grows where the grass can't, because of too much shade or poor drainage. Remove these factors and the moss will disappear so the grass can take over again.

To establish grass in shaded areas, Ries suggests you sow a shade-tolerant grass, such as Cheving fescue. For poor drainage he advises you put in tile.

Moss grows on either alkaline or acid soils, according to Ries, so lime applications won't control it. When seeding grass on mossy areas, don't bother to remove the moss. It makes a good mulch.

By seeding alfalfa in wide row corn, corn belt farmers may be able to get more feed value from each acre of land and cut soil erosion losses at the same time.

That was the statement of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in citing 1955 tests by University of Wisconsin soils specialists.

Corn yields up to 130 bushels per acre were reported at the La Crosse Experiment station, where the crop was planted in 60-inch rows, with alfalfa seeded in between the rows at various stages of corn growth.

Hay yields averaged more than 3 tons per acre of high quality alfalfa in previous years where wide row corn had been the nurse crop, the committee points out.

This new practice eliminates oats entirely from the crop rotation. It can be more profitable, because corn and alfalfa both produce more digestible nutrients per acre than oats. The corn provides a good income while the seeding is being established.

Art Peterson, University of Wisconsin soils specialist reports that time and money can be saved by once-over planting. Here the corn is planted in tractor wheel tracks right on plowed ground. This eliminates the disking and "working up" necessary for seeding nurse crops.

Fertilizer enough to feed two crops has to be provided when the corn is planted, the Wisconsin soils men point out. Extra nutrients, too, at the time of alfalfa seeding will help give it a good start.

Peterson reports that farmers and farm scientists have tried several ways of seeding alfalfa in

At 102, Uncle Bud Doesn't Go In For Much Honky-Tonk

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (P)—When you're 102, says Uncle Bud Clagg, "you don't do much honky-tonkin'. There are other things."

There's always the back fence gossip with other retired oldsters in the neighborhood and long discussions on fishing and hunting.

Uncle Bud, who celebrated his birthday Monday, says "I don't know who will win the coming election, but I hope the right man gets to be President." He then makes it plain he thinks the "right man" is Adlai Stevenson.

A native of Bellefontaine, Ohio, he worked 44 years for the Pennsylvania Railroad, never missing a day because of illness.

Uncle Bud doesn't follow any strict rules for longevity. He eats no special foods. Nor does he smoke any more. But he still takes a little wine "to keep my blood circulating."

East Liverpool Cop Pleads Guilty

EAST LIVERPOOL (P)—One policeman pleaded guilty and six others pleaded innocent to burglary charges yesterday.

Robert L. McBane, 33, named in eight of nine indictments returned by the grand jury a week ago, pleaded guilty before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp. He was not sentenced immediately.

Innocent pleas were entered by Ira Cunningham, 50; Louis Stutler, 33; Robert Carroll, 33; Robert Hanna, 31; Jerry Raimond, 23, and Dallas E. Bishop, 40.

wide-row corn, but one of the best methods seems to be a combination of wheel-track corn planting and a roller-seeding alfalfa between the rows later on.

Ohio Gubernatorial Hopefuls Give Predictions On Election

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Predictions of both Republican and Democratic victories in November were voiced Monday night as the seven candidates for governor in the May 8 primaries spoke in Northern Ohio.

The two Republican candidates—Lt. Gov. John W. Brown and Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill—were in Cleveland.

Four of the five Democratic candidates—Judge John E. Sweeney, Robert W. Reider, Michael V. DiSalle and Oscar Fleckner—spoke briefly at a Jefferson-Jackson Day banquet in Ashland. Mayor Frank X. Kryzan of Youngstown, the fifth candidate, made a non-political talk in Youngstown.

In addressing a dinner meeting of the Cleveland Citizens for Brown Committee, Brown referred to O'Neill's campaign expenses, asking: "What do heavy contributors expect in return for this outlay of capital?"

Brown called Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press, the "No. 1 king-maker in the newspaper field." He said Seltzer's endorsement of O'Neill was part of what he called "the marriage of the big three"—Gov. Frank J. Lausche, Seltzer and O'Neill.

Seltzer commented today: "I am editing a newspaper, and not running for political office."

O'Neill, addressing two dinners for precinct committeemen, said "this is the year when we can elect a Republican governor in Ohio."

"Republicans all across the state are astir, coming to meetings in crowds," he added.

DiSalle, former Toledo mayor, told some 300 party members at Ashland the Democrats would win a tremendous victory in November. The Taft-Bricker combination opposed the Democratic party in Ohio for many years, he said,

"but no other Republican combination can face up to the Democratic strength."

Sweeney, a Cleveland municipal judge, said the Democrats' problem is to "nominate a man May 8 who will win in November." He added a strong candidate would bring all the party unity needed, but that "unity alone will not beat the Republicans."

Reider, a Port Clinton publisher, said he had noted unrest among the Democrats in Ohio and blamed it on "a poor state organization." He promised a "revitalized and rejuvenated" party if nominated.

Fleckner, of Columbus, advocated paying unemployment compensation to strikers for a period of 80 days provided an 80-day notice of an impending strike is furnished. Such payment, he said, would supplement labor-management relations.

Mayor Kryzan spoke at a meeting at which Americanism awards were presented to several young people by the American Legion. He said too much emphasis is being placed on juvenile delinquents and not enough on young people such as those honored at the meeting.

Indiana Milk Strike Possible

INDIANAPOLIS (P)—The leader of an insurgent group of milk producers says his organization could stage a "crippling strike" against the Indianapolis milk market within "two or three weeks."

"We don't want to strike," said George Sandefur of Danville, "but if they force us into one, we'll try to get it statewide."

Sandefur is president of Dairy Producers Inc., which has taken strike votes in 14 central Indiana counties and claims strike authorization from almost 2,000 farmers.

Latest Make-Up Discovery Sets New Fashion Trend!

NEW YORK, N. Y., Mar., 1956—Youth's "bright and shining face" has moved from poetry to become the latest high fashion makeup trend. And fashion for everybody, too, regardless of age, since modern beauty science has developed makeup aids which actually work to aid the skin while you are wearing them.

Starting in Paris, the vogue for a glister on the complexion, rather than a matte-finish, is now forecast by Coty as the Number One beauty trend for next Spring and Summer.

Coty has even imported for our use the actual "shining" secret—a French formula for a makeup foundation which contains lecithine, a special blend of lecithin and cephalin, constituents in the human body which are now found to be health-giving agents essential to the life of every skin cell. Acting to maintain the delicate equilibrium of moisture absorption by the skin tissues, lecithine is therefore able to restore a living radiance to the skin and protects it from dryness.

Coty has combined the miraculous lecithine with a super-creamy base, introducing the "glow of youth complexion" in a new preparation called "French Formula Liquid Makeup." The creamy texture of the new foundation allows it to blend quickly and evenly to cover skin imperfections, it can be used either with or without face powder, according to individual preference. Re-applications of powder from time to time during the day will not affect its fresh appearance.

French Formula Liquid Makeup, in six new, flattering shades, results in a new and radiant alive looking complexion overall.

Paris-inspired, each of the six new shades in French Formula Liquid Makeup has been especially created to do corrective things to the complexion as well as harmonize with the complete range of individual skin tones:

Fair Tint—a light shade with a subtle pink undertone; lends a flattering glow to fair, delicate complexions.

Ivory Tint—a warm rachel shade which highlights and enlivens ivory complexions.

Beige Tint—a softly muted beige tone which subdues and tones down the florid or ruddy complexion.

Blush Tint—an alive, glowing and completely new pink shade; gives radiance to dull, sallow skin or adds sparkle to the colorless, lifeless complexion.

Rosy Beige Tint—a subtle blend of rose and beige especially created to dramatize the olive complexion.

Bronze Tint—a suntan shade with a warm undertone of rosinness for the radiantly healthy sun-bronzed look.

Coty's French Formula Liquid Makeup should be applied with long, sweeping strokes of the fingertips, and after the skin has been thoroughly cleansed. Just a small amount is enough to cover the entire face and throat area.

The new French Formula Liquid Makeup comes in pretty circle-shaped flacons with gold metal caps. The regular one-ounce size is priced at $1.50, a smaller travel size holding a half ounce is 85¢.

Prices plus tax.
